

My paintings are distillations from my experience. I have put them into a form that I can preserve and share. They represent my attempt to push the ordinary toward the extraordinary. I blend subtle modulations of exaggerated color with highly structured, crisp, rectilinear, one-point perspective interiors. As with ancient myths that are not simply stories but truths simply told, I believe it is possible for straightforward representational images to inspire creative centers in the psyche and evoke meaningful associations. Communion with these images stimulates a non-rational, dreamlike participation with what is depicted and enables us to heighten our awareness of the pre-cognitive core of human experience.
